

The main entrance to the High School at one time was merely pillars and piles of debris.

During our first year in the new building

Workmen, as busy as a hive of bees, finished laying the asphalt in front of the school.