'Snowbound' Is Dramatized In English Class

Dramatization of the poem, 'Snowbound', by J. G. Whittier, was presented by the first period English class of Mrs. Floyd Neely last Monday.

Those taking part were Rose Anders, Phil Graf, Stephanie Fetters, Suzanne Jenkinson, Ron Roddaway, Marjie Ruff, Judy Solt, George Swisher, Doyle Green, Norman Banks, and Sue McMillen.

Besides other members of the class, Miss Carole Williams, student teacher, and Fred Lowry, watched the dramatic presentation.

Mrs. Neely's English classes are currently reading from Nineteenth-century authors. For their supplementary reading for the second six weeks period, they are reading about events in the Nineteenth-century.

The classes are also presently working on essays of 150 words each to be sent to the National Essay Association of Los Angeles, Calif. This association then picks the best essays to be published in a national publication.

Lend An Ear, Fellow Beatniks 'n Boppers.

By Sandye Atkins
Brother rug-cutters, I have an announcement which should interest you. At the invitation of some real cool cats (Cheer leaders and Key Club members) Friday night, Nov. 6, immediately after the Zanesville game, you are to head for the LHS gym.

This, my friends, is going to be a "square round dance". Something new, really new, you know like this is the first time its ever been tried. And I mean like this isn't going to a "square" round dance. Like man, this is going to be a really swinging, moving affair.

Now, dad, if you tremble at the thought of looking square because you don't dig this square dancing bit, tremble no more. We non-conformists for once are not in minority, but after the caller has taught everyone the tricks of the trade... man, we'll still be in the majority.

Let's get with it Daddy-O, four bits (50c), and you're in.

Mr. Beal Aids Formation Of Club Singers

By Bonnie Wright
Many LHS clubs have formed their own choirs with the help of Newton Beal, their director. These choirs are Future Homemakers, Future Farmers, and Vocational Industrial.

Future Homemakers have choir every Friday during their class period. The F.H.A. club choir was organized at the suggestion of Fred Lowry, principal. The choir will sing at the Future Homemakers Convention in the spring at Columbus and some of the girls will sing at the annual Mother and Daughter Banquet during March.

Mr. Beal, choir director, suggested the Future Farmers organize their own choir. He thought the boys who hadn't had much singing experience would be interested. F.F.A. now has a fully developed choir. Wednesday during fifth period is when the boys practice singing. The Future Farmers will sing at the State F.F.A. Convention in June at Ohio State University.

Vocational Industrial choir has practice every Wednesday during third period. They will sing at the Industrial Leaders Banquet in February when the V.I.C. invites many industrial leaders from Lancaster and vicinity to dine with them. Since the boys enjoyed singing so well, they went to Columbus to sing at the State Convention at Ohio State University.

Mr. Beal may in the future combine the three choirs together as one, but he stated that this is only a possibility.

Advisor is Stanley Pratt. The committee is Marvin Fogel, Sandye Atkins, Emily Thimmes, Becky Rainer, Sarah Baker and Larry Paxton.

The decoration committee chairman is Geoff Rendall and the advisor is Charles Davis. The committee is Suzanne Stratton, Judy Russell, Connie Hill, Fyenne Edwards, Dan Peterson, Carol Coultrap, Terry Farmer, Marilyn Geiger, Mike Wood, Jackie Mohler, Marilyn Crook, Ann Trousedale, Susan Woodward, Diana Arnold, Linda Wilmot, Carolyn Solt, and Gail Jeffers.
