

The PURPLE And GOLD

Faculty Honored At Recent LHS Assembly

By Jane Karcher

Apples, teachers' appreciation week, words go together to make up Teachers' Appreciation Day. What about apples? They're for the teachers of course. The student salute to the teachers, sponsored by the Key Club, was climaxed by an assembly April 21 in the L. H. S. auditorium. Salute to the teachers was an international project carried out by Key Clubs throughout the United States and Canada.

Each day during appreciation week, words in honor of teachers and their profession were given over the public address system. On Friday each Key Club member brought a big, shiny, red "apple" for the teacher.

Certificates of appreciation were given to each teacher in recognition of her help and guidance to students all year. Randy Kidd, president of the L. H. S. Key Club, opened the assembly with the pledge of Allegiance and introduced Jeff Harrison, the speaker.

Jeff said that there should be more understanding between teachers and students. He described three main points toward better teacher-student relationship. The first, he said, is that the student sees what the teacher really is. A teacher is human too. If we realize this we have a step toward better understanding.

Next we should consider why the teachers chose this profession as their life's work. Why do they become teachers? It certainly isn't to become rich. According to Jeff, "A teacher's greatest reward comes from us. Like our parents they guide us through life. They mold us into better, more mature people."

Last, but far from least, he pointed out, there is a need for better understanding and cooperation between students and teachers. A student must participate in class to be understood. Sure, it's easy to sit in a classroom all year and never raise your hand, but if you want to be understood you must be willing to make yourself understood, to cooperate.

A teacher can be understood through her guidance and teaching. Each must go half way to understanding. Better understanding and agreement must be realized, or a student can accomplish nothing and a teacher's work is futile.

Each member of the faculty was escorted by a Key Club member to the stage to receive certificates. LHS teachers who were honored are as follows:

J. E. Brown, Superintendent of Schools; Robert W. Payne, Assistant Superintendent of Schools; Fred Lowry, principal of Lancaster High; Howard Kirk, Assistant Principal and Director of the Ohio U. Branch; Mrs. Pearl W. Waugh, Dean of Girls and English instructor.

William Barnes, Activities Band; Newton Beal, Vocal Music; Rex Beavers, English and World History; Charles Bishop, American History, Ohio History, and Economic Geography; Ray Coleman, Civics.

Gary Marquart Speaks Briefly About Himself

By Jackie Miller

Pushing his glasses up on his nose, he shoved back his Gates baseball cap, and his blond flat-top haircut peeked out. A thoughtful look came into his smiling blue-grey eyes and Gary began, "I guess the things I like best are baseball, Ford's, oogs, fishing, natural science, steak, and pecan pie."

Anyone who knows Gary Marquart very well would know that he certainly was telling the truth, because he is on the baseball team; he drives three Ford cars one at a time, of course; he has a part time job working for a local veterinarian; his most frequently-used sentence is, "Boy, this sure is a nice day to go fishing"; he plans to graduate from Otterbein College with his degree in forestry; and, well, he just DOES like steak and pecan pie.

In answer to a question about his family, Gary expounded, "Well, I was born in Michigan and then we moved to Ohio. Now I live on Dogwood Lane with my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marquart, I have a brother, Robby, 6, and a sister, Pam, 12."

"I fight with my brother and sister sometimes, as every brother does, but they're pretty good kids if I do say so. Actually, I think we have a rather close family. We do many things together. Oh, and I have a beagle, Chris. Chris and I get along real well," he added with a chuckle that brought out a dimple in his right cheek.

Thoughtfully pulling his hand across his mouth and then resting his chin on one fist, Gary lulled, "Hmmm, my advice to sophomores for success in high school... let me think a minute... I think that having respect for your teachers is just about the most important thing, and then being yourself runs a close second to that."

In answer to another question, Gary said, "I guess my pet peeves are practical jokers and prejudiced officials."

As he said this he scratched the top of his head and with a yawn stretched his long arms and explained, "I was up a little late last night doing my homework. You see, I just HAD to take time out to see 'The Untouchables.' Boy, did you see that? It was really good!" he continued, "for quite a while."

Once off the subject of "The Untouchables," Gary answered another question set before him with a more serious tone in his voice. "The characteristics I respect most in a person are honesty and dependability. I think it is very important to tell the truth, no matter what the consequence."

When asked about Gary, eight different people remarked, "He's the NICEST guy I know!" Two others said, "I don't know Gary very well, but he always speaks to me in the halls, so he must be a really friendly fellow."

Someone else added, "The thing I like about him is that he is so sincere. You always know that Gary will do something if he says he will." One other person explained, "He gets embarrassed rather often and he's noted for his bluntness and his baseball cap."

One of his best friends related, "Well, I thought he was a little shy when we first met, but after I got to know him a little better I found out that he was really a riot to be around, and now we're best friends. He's always doing something. Going here - going there - making plans for this or that. Yet he isn't one of these nervous fellows at all," added the senior with a slight look of puzzlement.

And who wouldn't be busy? Gary is president of Big Brothers, secretary of Hi-Y, treasurer of his church youth group, and a member of the Key Club. He has played football and baseball for four years. He maintains a high average in physics, advanced math, English, civics, and World History.

Most of his friends know that one of the fondest memories Gary has of his high school days is when he and two other LHS seniors represented their Key Club at a convention in Toronto, Canada, during the summer of 1959.

Senior Plans

By Anne Trousdale

State universities seem to be the goal of many of the seniors in LHS. In Mr. Earl Jones' home room, Judy Russell and Carol Shubing are going to Ohio University in Athens, while Bev Robinson and Bonita Rieder are going to attend the Lancaster O. C. Branch College.

Carl Rubie is going to Ohio State University to study agriculture. George Savoy will enter the law school there. Also headed for college are: Carol Rodabaugh, Manchester College in Indiana for pre-nursing; John Robson, College of Engineering at University of Cincinnati; Chet Ridenour, Wittenberg; Jerry Shriner, Dennison.

Tom Shepard and George Saunders plan to either go to college or enter the service. Tom Rutter is also considering the armed forces.

Rebecca Ruffner, wants to become a speech therapist. Geoff Rendall, an electrical engineer, Charlotte Rutter, librarian, and Woody Schriever, while still undecided as to which college to attend, still intends to go to some institution of higher learning. Carol Saaney is entering nurse's training.

Shirley Shallenberger and Betty Jo Roush plan to get jobs. Dave Seymour has his job all lined up at Lancaster Poultry and so does John Swartz, who is going to farm. Ron Schmelzter, caught in a cross current of so many choices, just can't decide what to do.

A survey taken at LHS last week revealed the following top tunes to be student favorites.

1. Green Fields
2. Kathy's Clown
3. Theme from a Summer Place
4. Apple Green
5. The Way of a Clown
6. Footsteps
7. Sixteen Reasons
8. Step by Step
9. Theme for Young Lovers
10. Night

Sparkling Smile Characterizes Julianne Harris

By Mary Lynne Fouse

"Hey, Lucie!"

"Yes, Charlie!"

"I've got a riddle for you. What's bright and cheerful and sparkles and is very valuable to have as a friend?"

"Oh, I know Charlie, it's jewels."

"Well, you know her too, huh?"

"Know who, Charlie?"

"Jules, of course."

"Oh, Charlie, you're so silly!"

"No I'm not. I'm talking about a girl. Her real name is Julianne Harris. Jules is just her nickname. She's bright and cheerful and friendly and she has a sparkling smile."

"Charlie Brown! You sound as though you like her better than me!"

"Oh, don't be silly, Lucie. I'm only five, and she's way older. Heavens, she's a senior at Lancaster High School now!"

"That's different, Charlie. She sounds nice. Tell me about her."

"Well, she lives down the street at 1010 E. Fifth Ave. with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Harris. Oh, and she has a cute doggie, too, named Cinders."

"Every night she carries home her books and studies for English XII, civics, speech and dramatics, Spanish X, and World History. Mommy says I mustn't bother her if she's studying. When I go to school I'll have to study like that so I can get a high 'B' average."

"At night she goes to club meetings sometimes. She belongs to G.A.C., Y-Teens, Big Sisters, and she's secretary of Twig 4 and librarian of FTA."

"What's G.A.C., Charlie?"

"That's Girls' Athletic Club."

"What do they do, Charlie?"

"Well, for one thing they play all kinds of intramural sports. Julie just loves sports - all kinds."

"Well, what's FTA, Charlie?"

"That's the Future Teachers. Julie told me she is going to Ohio State next year. That's a big university where she's going to learn how to teach sixth grade."

"Where'd you meet Julie, Charlie?"

"Oh, I met her at the First Presbyterian Church one Sunday. That's where I go to church, too. She wore a pretty red dress, and I noticed it because it's the same color as my new wagon. That's her favorite color."

"Ever, Charlie, do you suppose we'll get her old and go to high school? What's it like?"

"Julie told me about it once. She told me all about her Junior Prom and the times her class won the Junior-Senior Games. I guess they don't study all the time."

"Golly, Charlie, you're so smart. How'd you like to come over to my house? I'll bake you some mud pies."

"Sorry, some other time. Right now I have to take my new high-powered, double-barreled water pistol down to show Julie. I promised her I would, and she said her pet peeve is undependable people."

formation about their experiences as teachers, and it is likely that they will place great value on the intangible rewards which teachers receive.

Y-Teens

Y-Teens decided to have a "Balloon, Bermuda, and Blue Jean Dance" at the Sherman Armory April 22. Plans for the next meeting were also discussed. President Marilyn Crook conducted the April 19 meeting and Sue Blum was in charge of devotions.

English Club

A candy sale in the main hall, April 26, was planned at the April 19 meeting. Committees were also chosen for the next English Club meeting, which will be the induction of new members. According to President Sarah Baker, the induction will be held May 17.

Key Club

The Ohio School for the Deaf's Key Club came to the LHS Gym for a recreation meeting with the local club Thursday. The two clubs became friends at the Key Club Convention in Cleveland. Teacher Appreciation Assembly, sponsored by the Key Club, was discussed.

G. A. C.

Mrs. Martha Turpin, G. A. C. advisor, announced that the G.A.C. Banquet will be held at the Elk's Club May 10. Chairmen of committees were also selected Thursday by committees when they met with Mrs. Turpin in the auditorium.

The FTA has been engaging in various activities during this month, Career Month, to encourage students to become teachers and to honor the faculty. Members made announcements and posters and presented apples and notes to the teachers in appreciation of their service.

FTA held their April meeting on Thursday, April 21, in the cafeteria. All sophomores interested in teaching as a career were invited to attend and an election of officers was held.

Plans were discussed for the pot luck supper to be held next month when officers will be installed and new members will be initiated. All parents of members will be invited to attend.

Following the business meeting, members of the club explained the purposes and activities of FTA to the guests. Penny McCune told about past activities and Julianne Harris enumerated the purposes of the chapter.

Beverly Robinson, Anne Malaski, and Wilde Wilkie gave reports on books they had read about teaching.

Refreshments were served.

Randy Kidd smashed the Lancaster High School record in high hurdles at last Thursday's triangular track meet at North Field. His time was 15.4 seconds. The old mark was 15.9, set some 30 years ago by Dwight Kane, now principal of General Sherman Junior High School.

But Randy didn't win the first place prize! Ron Hannehs of Circleville beat him with a 15.0.

Circleville won this cinder meet, scoring 70, with Lancaster landing second with 48 and New Lexington rounding out the triangle with 30.

Gales' Track Team plays Logan at the Logan cinder tomorrow at 4 p.m. Logan, holding their best team in ten years, has been undefeated this season.

Gales baseball coach Dick England seems to have solved his pitching problem, for the present time anyway. Sophomore Charlie Walker pitched beautiful baseball in the second game of the Lancaster-Portsmouth doubleheader Saturday. He relieved starter Glenn Kitchen, who pitched only one-third of the first inning. Walker yielded only one earned run in the game. Lancaster split the doubleheader, winning the first game, 2-0, and losing the last 5-3.

The Gales will be trying for their sixth win against four losses as they play Chillicothe today on away soil. Smokey Hines is scheduled for mound duty today. Lancaster plays Zanesville at Zanesville Thursday and Charlie Walker is the probable starter.

Fraud Detected In 'Pregnancy'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - When Berthele M. Ashton was arraigned in December on a charge of fraudulently cashing a government check, she appeared very much pregnant. Worried court officials sent her home without bond on faith that she would return for trial.

When she failed to appear for trial Monday, federal marshals checked and learned that her pregnancy had been nothing more than a well-placed pillow.

"I suspect from now on the marshal will make a much more minute examination," said Judge Walter E. Hoffman.

Paper Clips

By Becky Lutz and Barb Labrner

Hats off to the Key Club! Their Teacher Appreciation Week was a big success.

Sue Ann White is at it again—trying to climb into her locker. Well, good luck, Sue Ann, hope you make it sometime.

Sandy Pryor likes to let the Lancaster Post Office know where she is visiting. She sent a postcard to the Post Office while visiting Washington, D. C. during Easter vacation.

LeFever says, "The Yanks could, would, and should win the American League pennant, with little mercy to Indian fans."

Phil Moyer is almost certain he'll be careful the next time he "enjoys himself". Ghosts are terrifying, aren't they, Phil and Company?

It would be appreciated if everyone would send Marty Woodyard a card. Her address is: Marty Woodyard, The Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital, 466 W. Tenth, Columbus 10, Ohio.

What's this? Julie Harris swallowed a paper clip!!! (For real)

It seems that Donna Walton, Sue Parsons, and Carolyn Tipple were enjoying a game of football when Donna went ker-plop. Result: A bruised Donna Walton!

Acid can eat clothing. Just ask Virginia Lane. Bea Kelton, and Ernie Wasmen what happened in chemistry lab last week.

Let's go gang! Let's back our track, golf and baseball teams.

What happened, Margaret Smith, when they told you that one premium trading stamp is not redeemable?

Shirley Ricketts, we hear you have a new nickname. Could it be "Spuffy"?

We are sorry, Mr. Coleman, that your name was omitted from the Political Convention story. Your good work was deeply appreciated.

Sharon Kay Dittoe

Sharon Dittoe Fairy Tale Girl, Bowling Champ

By Carolyn Solt

Once upon a time there was a cute senior girl at L. H. S. by the name of Sharon Kay Dittoe. Sharon lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dittoe, at 1836 Glenmar Dr. Now, this wasn't all the household; she had two sisters and two brothers. Judy was a junior at L. H. S., Bobbie was an eighth-grader, David a sixth-grader and Patty a fifth-grader.

The subjects in which she maintained a high average during her senior year were civics, band, Typing II, home economics, bookkeeping, and first aid assistant.

Besides having all this work, Sharon was active in Y-Teens, G. A. C., Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, C. Y. C., and Student Council, working at a downtown store took up more of her time.

People who were always late or those who stare were a constant peeve to her. But to make up for these dislikes, some of her favorites were the color red, dirt pickles and ice cream (that's good?), the movies PILLLOW TALK and SOUTH PACIFIC, and she especially liked Johnny Mathias and Doris Day. Sewing and meeting people were more likes. Her hobbies at that time were swimming and horseback riding.

Sharon remembered being on the bowling team that won the championship in 1960, and her visit to the mock political Democratic Convention at Capital University.

After graduation she worked as a secretary at the Anchor Hocking Glass Corp. Some time later Sharon became a private secretary, her highest ambition, and lived happily ever after.

How To Catch An Elephant!

The following article will be of the utmost importance to future safari guides, soldiers of fortune, or Mau-Mau prospects.

The new method of catching elephants requires a piece of paper, a milk bottle, a pair of tweezers, and a pair of binoculars.

Go to the elephant country, find a pool of water and write on the paper: "for elephants". When the elephants come up to drink they will see that their names are spelled wrong and start laughing.

When the other elephants hear them laughing they will come up to see what they are laughing about. At this point you look through the wrong end of the binoculars at the elephants.

The elephants look so small that you pick them up with the tweezers and put them in the milk bottle!

BOY TAXIDERMIST

MANASQUAN, N. J. - Michael Valerio is a boy who'd rather stuff alligators than play baseball.

The 16-year-old high school sophomore is a fully qualified taxidermist, diploma and all. He became a professional in the ancient art after practicing two years and taking a 10-month correspondence course.

Michael is interested in animals and wants to be a doctor. The immediate goal he has set for himself is to catch—and mount—a marlin.
